No landslide. But the reality of where Joe Biden is right now. He leads in AZ with one network calling it for him. Significant lead in NE-02. NC and GA still firmly in play. And clear favorite in WI and MI. PA, rather be him than Trump, though close. Still has multiple pathways.

Ritchie Torres, Mondaire Jones Win Elections, Growing LGBTQ Caucus to Historic Levels

WASHINGTON — Tonight, the House LGBTQ Caucus grew to its largest size in history with the victories of Human Rights Campaign (HRC)-endorsed candidates Ritchie Torres and Mondaire Jones. Crucially, the LGBTQ Caucus has grown to nine members, significantly increasing its representation of people of color, a key priority of HRC, by adding its first Black and Afro-Latino members.

"For too long, particularly LGBTQ people of color have been pushed to the sidelines and stripped of our voice," said Alphonso David, Human Rights Campaign President. "But today we reclaim our

To my new Dem pals, I'm begging you, be happy. Please. @JoeBiden is racking up more votes than any candidate in history. You flipped Az, Mi, Wi, NE2. You're going to flip Pa. & probably Ga. You beat an incumbent president. You elected first Black woman VP. Savor it. You won.

Very good point that I hadn't overly thought about . Hallmark of Obama-Biden lives on.

> Ben Rhodes @brhodes
> Despite being very different people, one striking thing Obama and Biden have in common: no drama. Biden stuck to his strategy and consistently modeled presidential leadership, and now it's all falling into place for him.

Where PA stands:
- Trump's edge is down to about 300k.
- About 900k mail ballots uncounted yet.
- Biden still winning 78% of those.
- If - again IF - that % holds, Biden would surpass Trump's advantage.

Seeing equal numbers of takes that the Democratic Party was not woke enough or that it was too woke. What I haven't is much introspection from Trumpists who are about to produce the rare incumbent loss - and who've been losing the popular vote on the regular.

Those ballots that dropped from Pima are election day voters. This is good news for Biden. Trump carried election day in the state's bluest county 67.7 to 30.5. Early vote was 53.7 Biden to 44.9 Trump (and much larger). Biden has the county by nearly 100k votes.

> Official Pima County @pimaarizona
> The Pima County Elections Department this afternoon counted about 5,354 early ballots and the remaining precincts from Nov. 3. Results have been updated on the web. Meanwhile, the Pima County Recorder has continued to verify early ballots dropped off at polling places Nov. 3.

Some perspective: it's increasingly clear that Biden will win both Pennsylvania and Michigan by a few points. In any other year, both states would've been called early on election night for Biden and he'd already be president-elect.

The math in PA is REALLY simple folks.

There are ~860k votes left. The recent ones have come in @ 75-25 Biden. It looks like that'll hold.

That means Biden should net 645k to Trump's 215, making the state 51% Biden to 48% Trump. POTUS needs 40% of remaining votes or it's over.

Given Trump's obsession with juicing white working-class votes, I've been watching two places all year: Macomb County, MI & Lackawanna County, PA (Scranton).

Two symbolically loaded historic Dem strongholds.

The margin in PA is down to 164,000. Biden may erase that just on the strength of the votes still to be counted in Philadelphia County.
The margin in GA is down to 28,000.
AZ remains a 79,000 lead for Biden.
NV & NC are unchanged and won't change tonight.

Biden's landslide margin in California could be of historic proportions.

He's on track to beat Trump by 32.4%; it would be the largest CA victory since the state backed Republican Warren Harding in 1920.

Total raw vote gain in Clark County:

That's about 2-1 Biden to Trump votes. This is why Democrats like Clark mail.

Biden wins the new votes in Nevada by 14 points, and there's still more late mail and provisionals left. I don't know if anyone will call it on this basis, as it's still fairly close and there's no hard data on what's out. But you can still pencil this into the Biden column

Additionally Clark County (Las Vegas) appears to hold a disproportionate share of what's left That would be good news for Biden even if the remaining vote methods (late mail provisional) weren't likely to his advantage

We've gotten updates so far today from six of 17 counties: Clark, Elko, Lyon, Nye, Storey and Washoe. Raw vote gains so far:

- Joe Biden, +15,999
- Donald Trump: +12,208

Clark: 2-1 Biden
Rurals: 2-1 Trump
Washoe: A little more Biden than Trump but fairly even

Props to the smart, technocratic, local election officials for running tight ships, having a great command of the facts, and performing well in the national spotlight whether or not they're used to it. Tough job. These have been good press conferences under trying conditions.

I've worked lots of elections. The numbers coming out of Philadelphia, SE PA, Allegheny County, Wayne County and Milwaukee County are not surprising and do not suggest any widespread fraud.

Every election, there are large margins that are often disappointing for Republicans.

Much will be said about POTUS elect. The right leader to heal us. I want to give a huge hats off to the Biden campaign. They faced doubts, battles that looked lost, a pandemic, voter suppression, and a president who doesn't play fair. And they blew it out. Take the biggest bow!

Trump team saying election not over, including:

"In Nevada, there appear to be thousands of individuals who improperly cast mail ballots."

No. No. There are not.

Bogus list they sent to DOJ contains military folks who cast absentees. And at least one person I know.
1/

November 6, 2020

Trump campaign: This election is not over

"This election is not over. The false projection of Joe Biden as the winner is based on results in four states that are far from final. Georgia is headed for a recount, where we are confident we will find ballots improperly harvested, and where President Trump will ultimately prevail. There were many irregularities in Pennsylvania, including having election officials prevent our volunteer legal observers from having meaningful access to vote counting locations. We prevailed in court on our challenge but were deprived of valuable time and denied the transparency we are entitled to under state law. In Nevada, there appear to be thousands of individuals who improperly cast mail ballots. Finally, the President is on course to win Arizona outright, despite the irresponsible and erroneous calling of the state for Biden by Fox News and the Associated Press. Biden is relying on these states for his phony claim on the White House, but once the election is final, President Trump will be re-elected."

Biden did the job he was hired to do. White working class numbers weren't great & they weren't that much better everywhere but just better enough in the 3 blue wall states Trump won. And college+ suburbs, new economy hubs & big centers of AA voters went through the roof

Key point by @dhopkins1776 on the @FiveThirtyEight liveblog: Biden isn't "pulling ahead at the last second", these votes were all cast on/before Election Day. "The illusion of a dramatic horse race is simply a product of the order in which we count votes." fivethirtyeight.com/live-blog/2020 …

DAN HOPKINS NOV 6 10:18 AM

The fact that ballots are counted sequentially lends the process of vote counting important transparency. But it can also lead us to apply inappropriate mental frames. For instance, we may resort to horse-race language that suggests that Biden is pulling ahead at the last second, but in fact these votes were all cast on or before Election Day. The illusion of a dramatic horse race is simply a product of the order in which we count votes.

Absolutely if votes had been released complete county by complete county (as in most other countries) the story would have felt different I think drip feeding results without much context is confusing to many people and maybe should be reassessed?

Don't just pay homage to Stacey Abrams, actually listen to what she's saying — she didn't just sprinkle organizing fairy dust around the state, Georgia implemented an Automatic Voter Registration law.

Other states can do this!

Former Georgia Gubernatorial Candidate On A Push For Voter Turnout

KELLY: I mentioned you have been super focused on getting people out to vote, getting first-timers registered. You founded the voter rights organization Fair Fight, which looks like it has registered more than 800,000 new voters in Georgia. That is a lot. Talk to me about the significance, how that changes an election.

ABRAMS: I want to be clear. So I created an organization about six years ago called the New Georgia Project. That has focused exclusively on voter registration. And New Georgia Project is part of a consortium of organizations that have been working hard to register voters of color and voters who are unlikely voters. We also have had easier voting processes made possible because of the Motor Voter Act being really fully implemented in the state of Georgia. And so 800,000 new voters are an incredible number, but the credit should be shared.

I will say, of those numbers, what we are excited about is that 45% of those new voters are under the age of 30. Forty-nine percent are people of color. And all 800,000 came on the rolls after November '18, which means these are voters who weren't eligible to vote for me but are eligible to participate in this upcoming election. And we have been working assiduously to get them turned out.

Yes- look at the coalition Biden was able to build. It was not either/or- any theory of the electorate that depended solely on motivating/turning out the base or persuasion was wrong. Turns out Dems win the WH (see: Obama, Barack) when we do both.

Former President George W. Bush: “I just talked to the President-elect of the United States, Joe Biden. I extended my warm congratulations and thanked him for the patriotic message he delivered last night...”

November 8, 2020

STATEMENT BY
PRESIDENT GEORGE W. BUSH

DALLAS, TEXAS — I just talked to the President-elect of the United States, Joe Biden. I extended my warm congratulations and thanked him for the patriotic message he delivered last night. I also called Kamala Harris to congratulate her on her historic election to the vice presidency. Though we have political differences, I know Joe Biden to be a good man, who has won his opportunity to lead and unify our country. The President-elect Americans — an extraordinary political achievement. They have spoken — and their voices will continue to be heard through elected Republicans at every level of government.

The fact that so many of our fellow citizens participated in this election is a positive sign of the health of our democracy and a reminder of the enduring strength. No matter how you voted, your vote counted. President Trump has the right to request recounts and pursue legal challenges, and any lawful votes will be properly adjudicated. The American

The challenges that face our country will demand the best of President-elect Biden and Vice President-elect Harris — and the best of us all. We must come together for the sake of our families and neighbors, and for our nation and its future. There is no problem that will not yield to the gathered will of a free people. Jaime and I pray for our leaders and their families. We ask for God's continued blessings on our country. And we urge all Americans to join us in wishing our next President and Vice President well as they prepare to take up their important duties.

My statement on the presidential election

"If there is any chance whatsoever that Joe Biden will be the next president, and it looks like he has a very good chance, the Trump Administration should provide the Biden team with all transition materials, resources, and meetings necessary to ensure a smooth transition so that both sides are ready on day one. That especially should be true, for example, on vaccine distribution.

"Recounting votes and resolving disputes after a close election is not unprecedented and should reassure Americans that election results are valid.

"Al Gore finally conceded 37 days after the 2000 election, and then made the best speech of his life accepting the result.

"My hope is that the loser of this presidential election will follow Al Gore's example, put the country first, congratulate the winner and help him to a good beginning of the new term.

"The prompt and orderly transfer or reaffirmation of immense power after a presidential election is the most enduring symbol of our democracy."

100% not it, Sen Alexander. The election was free and fair, and conducted securely. We have a winner and we have a loser. The opacity of this statement contributes to disinformation, it's long past time to begin the orderly transition of power

Of course, this is a temporary boost on the assumption he'll be doling out trillions in Democrat pet projects and college loan forgiveness and all kinds of free shit.

You know that though.

It's called short-term relief that will end up in long-term pain.

This is ridiculousness. There are plenty of jobs helping the public in ways great and small. No one is under any obligation to cash in on their government service Ben. It's fair to question why people do so when they could've worked for state or local governments, schools, &tc

This is terrible analysis. It's based on exit polls that haven't been reweighted — they are meaningless — and it ignores Biden's major strides in the suburbs where Lenz says Dems wasted effort. And how is the "wine moms" thing (not in the article) not reductive and sexist?

The math also doesn't add up. If you think Trump gained eight points with white women while also gaining ground with black and Hispanic voters, how did he lose?

And then the usual warning about how black and Hispanic voters are Not A Monolith in the same paragraph as saying that suburban women (not even specifying white) are a lost cause for the Democratic party. Again, look at the precinct returns. this is wrong, wrong, wrong

President Obama, about the best message architect there is, suggests a thoughtful alternative to "Defund." Via @PeterHamby. bit.ly/33C3ccL

It's interesting. We take for granted that if you want people to buy your sneakers, that you're going to market it to your audience, right? We take for granted that if a musician drops a record, that they're going to try to reach certain audiences by speaking to folks where they are. It's no different in terms of ideas, right? So if you believe, as I do, that we should be able to reform the criminal justice system so that it's not biased and treats everybody fairly. I guess you can use a snappy slogan, like Defund the Police, but, you know, you lost a big audience the minute you say it, which makes it a lot less likely that you're actually going to get the changes you want done. But if you instead say, Hey, you know what? Let's reform the police department so that everybody's being treated fairly. And not just in policing, but in sentencing, how can we divert young people from getting into crime? And if there was a homeless guy, can maybe we send a mental health worker there instead of an armed unit that could end up resulting in a tragedy? You know, suddenly a whole bunch of folks who might not otherwise listen to you are listening to you. So the key is deciding, do you want to actually get something done, or do you want to feel good among the people you already agree with? And

President Obama, about the best message architect there is, suggests a thoughtful alternative to "Defund." Via @PeterHamby. bit.ly/33C3ccL

It's interesting. We take for granted that if you want people to buy your sneakers, that you're going to market it to your audience, right? We take for granted that if a musician drops a record, that they're going to try to reach certain audiences by speaking to folks where they are. It's no different in terms of ideas, right? So if you believe, as I do, that we should be able to reform the criminal justice system so that it's not biased and treats everybody fairly. I guess you can use a snappy slogan, like Defund the Police, but, you know, you lost a big audience the minute you say it, which makes it a lot less likely that you're actually going to get the changes you want done. But if you instead say, Hey, you know what? Let's reform the police department so that everybody's being treated fairly. And not just in policing, but in sentencing. how can we divert young people from getting into crime? And if there was a homeless guy, can maybe we send a mental health worker there instead of an armed unit that could end up resulting in a tragedy? You know, suddenly a whole bunch of folks who might not otherwise listen to you are listening to you. So the key is deciding, do you want to actually get something done, or do you want to feel good among the people you already agree with? And

Totally agree. Finding candidates that know the mechanisms of government, how to make the agencies do their best work and motivate both the political and career workforces is essential. I didn't see and understand how important that was until I worked in the exec branch.

The ugly effort by some Republican senators to demonize @neeratanden has not worked. Per Morning Consult poll, those with an opinion approve of her nomination by 27% to 20%, and moderates approve by 29% to 11%. Approval for her selection tracks with those of other Biden nominees.

Geoff Garin @geoffgarin · 30 Sek.

And not much sign of a left backlash against her. Liberals approve of her selection by 48% to 7%, as @JesseCharlesLee has noted

Republicans will continue to try, but their case against her mainly comes down to them being thin skinned

Context

Josh Barro @barro
Marriott booked about 368 million room nights last year and Airbnb booked approximately 327 million stay nights. So the companies are already similar in scope. Marriott is basically a platform too; it doesn't own real estate.

Trump was terrible on the economy, as Republicans usually are

To the extent the economy did well, it is because he inherited a strong economy from Obama, his actions (tariffs, tax cuts) either hurt the economy or helped only the rich

Loved hearing @PeteButtigieg talk about the need to build BETTER infrastructure at home than exists throughout the developed world today. Always found it odd that we'd just concede that Europe and Asia will have more innovative transit. Can't wait to see what's in the cards.

If Democrats controlled the Senate:

- the cash payments would be $1200 not $600
- there would be $175 billion, not $25 billion, to help people pay the rent
- there would be flexible money for states and cities and bonus checks for frontline workers

Let's win Georgia.

The U.S. Capitol was breached today for the first time since 1814, when the British attacked it and set it on fire during the war of 1812, according to the director of scholarship and operations with the U.S. Capitol Historical Society. How shameful.

I cannot stop thinking about how close the 1-2-3 in the line of presidential succession, VP-Speaker-Pro tempore came to being physically harmed on Weds. The terrorists had operable bombs, killed an officer and ransacked difficult to access areas of the Capitol. We need answers.

Few Capitol Police fired shots when the force was totally justified—why? National Guard was slow walked as Leader Hoyer called Gov Hogan of Maryland pleading for help-why? Why was the Capitol deliberately left so vulnerable? We were such important leaders left on their own?

If NYT reports are accurate that some Capitol Police willfully gave the terrorists directions to Leader Schumer's office, that is appalling. If WaPo report that off duty police were flashing their badges as they stormed the Capitol and let through is accurate, that's appalling

One of the things I'm most looking forward to over the next couple years is watching @SpeakerPelosi work with narrow but unified Democratic control.

She's never gotten the credit she deserves as an historically effective legislator and this session should be legacy defining.

Amanda Gorman, speaking now, when I asked her for her first political memory:

washingtonpost.com/politics/2021/ …

Gorman. No one's ever asked me that before! My first political memory? I would say it wouldn't be anything like being at a protest or anything like that. It would be: When I was really young, my mother would read me my Miranda Rights and make sure I knew them. My mom was not playing around.

When you are a black child growing up in America, our parents have to have what's called 'the talk' with us. Except it's not about the birds and the bees and our changing bodies, it's about the potential destruction of our bodies.

My mom wanted to make sure I was prepared to grow up with black skin in America, and that was my first awakening to the political climate I was stepping into.

Hawley approval rating in solidly-red Missouri: 36% approve, 49% disapprove.

Just 63% approval (and 21%) disapproval among REPUBLICANS. Via Morning Consult.

Big red flags.

So apparently the @nytimes editorial board doesn't like that @POTUS is issuing so many executive orders. Maybe they forget that we are in a sea of crises or maybe they don't get Americans not only want action but also how popular these EOs are.

Share of all respondents and Republican voters who support or oppose 14 of Biden's executive actions during his first week in office

BIDEN EXECUTIVE POLICY	SUPPORT ALL	SUPPORT GOP	OPPOSE ALL	OPPOSE GOP
Prohibiting workplace discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity*	83%	64%	18%	34%
Committing to a government-wide focus on racial equity*	77	52	21	45

Always impressed by how closely @StiofanDonnelly and our Aussie friends follow American politics. Enjoyed looking at the first days of the Biden administration, what's to come, and how we must continue to combat Trumpism.

Reporters ask flacks before press conferences: "So what news are you gonna make today?"

Flacks ask reporters: "What are you interested in today?" As Ben pointed out below.

None of this precludes a tough or out-of-left-field move on the pol's part or the reporter's.

I agree with Ben here. When I covered the WH my questions were mostly obscure policy/regulatory/legislative in nature. I'd often email a Q to the press office in the morning knowing I could get an informed answer from @joshearnest during the briefing.

This is more than simply "not true", this is a reporter pushing out false information. Demonstrably false. The WH Spokesperson answer every question asked and at times it is the reporters who call an end to the briefing, not the spokesperson. @politico needs to correct this. Now.

I've been lucky to work with @AliMayorkas and couldn't agree with Ben more—he is a man of principle, and we need more public servants like him, not fewer.

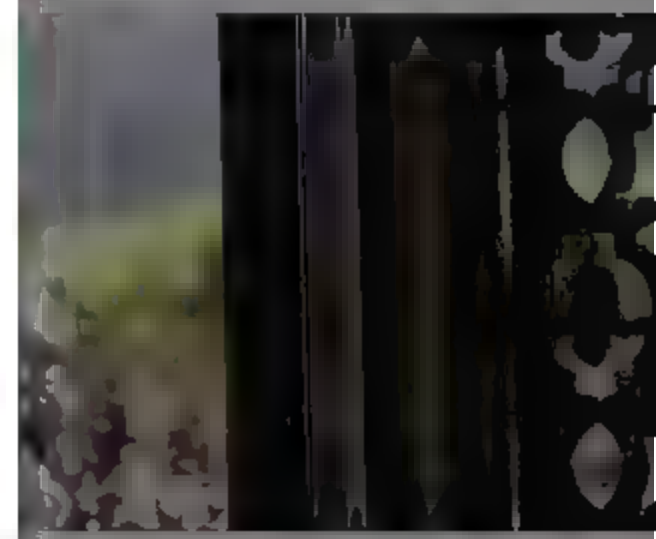
Starting tomorrow, we're opening our second high-volume vaccination site at Moscone Center!

Vaccine supply is still limited, but this site alone has the capacity to administer between 7k-10k doses per day when that changes.



Our infrastructure is in place and we're ready to go.

Tradition and Donald Trump don't belong in the same sentence

Wolf Blitzer @wolfblitzer

This is significant. President @JoeBiden tells @NorahODonnell he doesn't think Trump should receive classified intelligence briefings "because of his erratic behavior unrelated to the insurrection." The tradition has been that former Presidents continue to receive such briefings.

Identify as ideologically quite liberal with no tolerance for this laughable left culture war nonsense She's asked like 7 times if facts matter and she can't ever commit to a yes. twitter.com/ic/notner.star concerned about?

No. I mean, I wouldn't phrase it that way, either. I think it would just require more dialogue. I know the committee is still meeting, and they're still open to that. So it's not that it's not a concern. I think it's something that's missing without a dialogue.

But the committee member said, essentially, "things are true or false." And so it seems like if they're false, seems like we should have of whether what they did w ically correct or not. No?

THE NEW YORKER

en for that conversation.

[illegible] but, rather, factual things, like Paul Revere's name being removed for the Pemaquid Expedition, which was not actually about the colonization of Native American lands. And so there were questions about whether historians should have been involved to check these things.

But they matter from the head of a think tank criticizing political opponents

Good summary. The only question is whether the SF School Board has enough of a shame gene to care about near universal criticism. And spending caps in the races are so low that candidates pretty much just win on name ID, which makes re-election really easy!

Just want to highlight, again, that the SF BOE denied a gay day of biracial kids a spot in the parent advisory committee, leaving it with ZERO LGBTQ representation (in SF!) and NO MEN to help share the work load of the moms on the committee. Wtf.

> Alice B Toklas LGBTQ Democratic Club @alicelgbtdems
> The SF BOE says that representation matters to them, but in Tuesday's meeting that's not what we saw. Their misguided attempts to promote diversity on the Parent Advisory Council led to a qualified LGBTQ candidate being shut out of a board currently without any LGBTQ members.

We get a lot of misinfo about renewables “crashing the grid” in CA too. The reality here is utilities proactively shut down power lines in advance of wind events that could start forest fires, which, you know turn our skies orange!

Catherine Traywick ✓ @ctraywick

It's confirmed. The blackouts in Texas are primarily because of frozen instruments at gas, coal and nuclear plants — as well limited supplies of gas, according to Ercot.

🇨🇳🦜: The United States officially rejoins the Paris Climate Agreement today.

Another promise made, another promise kept.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Office of the Spokesperson

For Immediate Release

STATEMENT BY SECRETARY ANTONY BLINKEN

February 19, 2021

The United States Officially Rejoins the Paris Agreement

On January 20, on his first day in office, President Biden signed the instrument to bring the United States back into the Paris Agreement. For the terms of the Agreement, the United States officially becomes a Party again today.

The Paris Agreement is an unprecedented framework for global action. We know because we helped design it and make it a reality. Its purpose is both simple and expansive: to help us all avoid catastrophic planetary warming and to build resilience around the world to the impacts from climate change we already see.

Now, as momentous as our joining the Agreement was in 2016, and as momentous as our rejoining is today, what we do in the coming weeks, months, and years is even more important.

You have seen and will continue to see us weaving climate change into our most important bilateral and multilateral conversations at all levels. In these conversations, we're asking other leaders, how can we do more together?

Climate change and science diplomacy can never again be "add-ons" in our foreign policy discussions. Addressing the real threats from climate change and listening to our scientists is at the center of our domestic and foreign policy priorities, as well as in our discussions of national security, migration, international health efforts, and in our economic diplomacy and trade talks.

We are reengaging the world on all fronts, including at the President's April 22nd Leaders' Climate Summit. And further out, we very much looking forward to working with the United Kingdom and other nations around the world to make COP26 a success.

Powerful editorial calling again for on to resign.

As insurrectionists roamed the Capitol, hunting for House Speaker Nancy Pelosi and threatening to hang Pence, Johnson was oblivious. "I never felt threatened," he told Weber.

The police officers who defended him, including one who gave up his life that day, certainly did.

ProPublica reported what one officer, a combat veteran, saw:

"The rioters were so vicious, so relentless, that they seemed fueled by methamphetamine. To his left, he watched a chunk of steel strike a fellow officer above the eye, setting off a geyser of blood. A pepper ball tore through the air over his shoulder and exploded against the jaw of a man in front of him. The round, filled with chemical irritant, ripped the rioter's face open. His teeth were now visible through a hole in his cheek. Blood poured out, puddling on the pavement surrounding the building. But the man kept coming.

"The combat veteran was hit with bear spray eight times. His experience overseas 'was nothing like this,' he said. 'Nothing at all.' "

The rioters were just steps away from the senators as that chamber was evacuated

.@POTUS applauds @LGBTEqCaucus for introducing the #EqualityAct and calls on Congress to pass this legislation “because no one should ever face discrimination or live in fear because of who they are or whom they love” 🏳️‍🌈

THE WH TE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
February 19, 2021

Statement by President Joseph R. Biden, Jr. on the Introduction of the Equality Act in Congress

I applaud Congressman David Cicilline for leading the Congressional Equality Caucus for introducing the Equality Act in the House of Representatives yesterday, and I urge Congress to swiftly pass this historic legislation. Every person should be treated with dignity and respect, and this bill represents a critical step forward ensuring that America lives up to our foundational values of equality and freedom for all.

For Equality has been denied to LGBTQ+ Americans and their families for far too long. Despite the extraordinary progress the LGBTQ+ community has made to secure their basic civil rights, discrimination still rears its head in too many areas of our society. The Equality Act provides a long overdue federal civil rights protections on the basis of sexual orientation and gender identity, making critical safeguards in housing, education, public services, and lending systems – and codifying the courage and resilience of the LGBTQ+ movement into enduring law.

On my first day in office, I was proud to sign an Executive Order on Preventing and Combating Discrimination on the Basis of Gender Identity or Sexual Orientation, and I directed agencies to implement the Supreme Court's Bostock ruling and fully enforce Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and other laws that prohibit discrimination on the basis of gender identity or sexual orientation. Now, it's time for Congress to secure these protections once and for all by passing the Equality Act – because no one should ever face discrimination or live in fear because of who they are or whom they love.

I don't think a conflict has been identified. I would hope companies bring in advice from real experts, not people who are going to be paid to tell them what they want to hear. I'd be concerned if they hired Dr. Oz.

You don't think money might make you say the cruise industry is safe sooner than if you have never been paid by them? Your take is money is never corrupting?

Ben LaBolt @BenLaBolt · 14 Min
I don't think a conflict has been identified. I would hope companies bring in advice from real experts, not people who are going to be paid to tell them what they want to hear. I'd be concerned if they hired Dr. Oz.

Jeff Hauser @jeffhauser · 6 Min
Murthy as Surgeon General will be asked to tell the public when they can return to cruise ships. We know the cruise ship industry will push for fast. I want a career public servant with no professional ties to the cruise industry to make that call, e.g. Tony Fauci.

You've made clear in repeated stories you don't want any nominee for any position that has any private sector experience. The Senate has strongly disagreed with that point of view. You can be ethical and have worked for both the government and the private sector.

Go ahead and try to come after me now Jeff, I'm a closet Republican that was all in on Donald Trump! Caught me red handed! This type of internet trolling without the facts is why your arguments don't hold a lot of weight. I will certainly be tuning them out moving forward.

I'm a little bit lost as to what the conflict is here. If he was advising companies on how to strengthen their health and safety protocols, isn't that among the same things he'd be doing as Surgeon General? We need both public and private entities to do so.

Love this deep dive into @nomadlandfilm. McDormand turned in a performance that was the opposite of method acting, by playing a character as close to herself as possible. And I didn't realize a number of the other "actors" were nomads who live on the road.

Except nowadays you take said story, blame the media, start fundraising online and raise a couple of million bucks.

Which is why the idea of opening a bar in the Philippines has more appeal every single day.

Of all the COVID tests in San Francisco right now, only 0.93% are coming back positive.

Our reproductive rate is down to 0.66.

One in four San Franciscans have received a vaccine.

We're making good progress towards reaching the state's Orange Tier.

Let's keep it up!

We're definitely not in the middle of a global pandemic, generational recession or two months removed from an insurrection

Biden administration

White House Press Secretary JEN PSAKI insisted in her briefing that today was the 49th day of Biden's presidency. Chief of Staff RON KLAIN [illegible] to be "Day 49" in a tweet. That would make Thursday, when Biden delivers his first primetime address about his signature Covid-19 relief plan, the nice and even day 50.

But like a high school student scribbling a few seconds after the teacher yells "PENCILS DOWN," the Biden White House is giving themselves an extra day, refusing to count the day he was sworn in as a day in office. Today, dear readers, is actually Biden's 50th day in the White House. Welcome to #DayGate.

A Democratic president is signing legislation to help Americans & executing a plan to vaccinate a country. Republicans are talking about children books & why a nation of immigrants should be terrified of immigrants. It's not only how you kill a party but why it should die.

Hmm, if only there was a way to know what those 700,00 residents wanted.

Ah yes: in 2016, 86% of DC residents voted in favor of statehood: nbcwashington.com/news/local/dc-…

> Edward-Isaac Dovere ✓ @IsaacDovere

Seeing lots of coverage of the costs of a plan to tackle climate change and rebuild our infrastructure. But very little coverage of our crumbling roads and bridges, the cost of climate inaction, the fact that many EU and Asian countries are kicking our ass at transportation.

One of the biggest impediments to progress is that legislation is measured by "cost of action" and never the "cost of inaction"

Dealing with Climate Change costs money, not dealing with Climate Change costs a lot more.

There is a pro-business argument for massive infrastructure spending, even the GND. Trillions in spending equal contracts for engineering firms, architects, contractors, etc. Construction has a multiplier effect on hospitality/retail. Business should be all in for infrastructure.

Press barely asking @POTUS about COVID. We're still in the midst of a global pandemic. Their moving on is a sign they think Biden has handled it well. But it's important to focus on progress and good news too, not just controversy.

Good. We deserve far better than the report that was released yesterday, which raised more questions than it answered. We all deserve to know what caused COVID and what steps are being taken to prevent another global pandemic.

The Asian American community has had to launch community patrols in SF's Chinatown to protect the elders given the recent outbreak in attacks. We need a more holistic approach to preventing these hate crimes in the first place.

Important effort here to defend frontline Dems and do so early. The localized approach of Shield PAC that will highlight their individual records and repel the false nationalized message the GOP is trying to apply to them (socialism! defund!) is essential:

Mine have generally been ok but they're increasingly static-prone, and their choice about which device to connect to is sometimes... creative. (RE: Static & sound issues, there's a service program... > support.apple.com/airpods/pro/se)

Don't know if this is still true but the secret used to be that reporters in the back row of the briefing room belonged to obscure outlets with barely any audience to speak of, but they'd be frequent participants in the briefings, while important regional outlets had no presence

The Trump White House gradually shifted the "skype seat" questions to more ideological people, radio talk show hosts, etc, who were supportive of Trump. We'll see if the Biden WH resists that temptation. (and, ahem, I stood at the back of the briefing room for 4 years!)

Senate HELP committee is holding a hearing today on @JamesKvaal's nomination for Under Secretary of Education.

James is proof that you can be brilliant, driven, and effective in DC while also being kind and principled. The committee should confirm him and get him to ED asap.

Ridiculous. We need all countries in the world to commit to reducing carbon emissions, whether they are developing or developed. Carbon emissions from developing economies are a huge part of the problem right now. Diplomacy has many more tools than just paying everyone off.

We need way more affordable housing. Last year affordable housing accounted for just 20% of new units built. "The City gained 818 new affordable units in 2020, down 44% from 2019. About 56% of those are considered affordable to low-income households."

Despite all the handwringing in the press about whether or not @POTUS is bipartisan enough, this CBS poll shows he's is absolutely winning the debate when compared to Congressional Republicans.

34. In general, do you want to see Congressional Republicans try to compromise and find common ground with Joe Biden, or do you want to see Congressional Republicans try to oppose Joe Biden as much as possible?

Common ground	70%
Oppose	30%

35. And what have Congressional Republicans been doing so far?

Looking for common ground with Joe Biden	39%
Opposing Joe Biden as much as possible	61%

36. Do you think Joe Biden is trying, or not trying, to work with Congressional Republicans?

Trying	58%
Not trying	42%

Next up today: People pushing back on the CDC and saying they'll still be wearing masks outside

The New York Times @nytimes

Vaccinated people in the U.S. no longer need to wear masks outdoors in small groups when biking or running alone and when dining outside, the CDC said. nyti.ms/3sUjSWD

Will vaxbucks fix all of the vax-hesitancy problems? No.

Will millions of people still refuse the shots? Yes

Is it sort of moral hazardish to means-test vaxbucks for the no-vax crowd? Kinda

Will some ppl be even more sure that vaccines are a govt conspiracy? Yes

Even so

7 4 75

Derek Thompson @DKThomp · 3h

Most plans to overcome vaccine hesitancy cost money, either literally, or in the form of time spent with patients

If we're going to spend scarce resources on the problem, maybe we should spend the least scarce resource—federal outlays—and give it directly to people

Vaccine lottery seems pretty clever, but maybe it's too clever?

Bizarre and ominous for Stefanik to feel compelled to announce, referring to House Republicans, "We are unified in working with President Trump."
Congress is co-equal branch and Trump no longer President, having been thrown out by US voters (as it should not need to be said).

But it seems like nothing was found (reads like an off aircraft threat that forced the grounding)

So in essence it would be like Ford's theater that noting happened Apri 13th even though there were reports someone might do something drastic in the 3rd act

menelmacar18 @menelmacar18 · 42m

There was no threat Belarus made them divert the flight so they could arrest a journalist who has written critical articles about the government, the statement is pretending their flight wasn't highjacked to get to a political adversary traveling between two foreign nations

We need to deal with the pandemic before this pandemic—gun violence.

Tomorrow the news may move on—but the labor community & loved ones of the 8 victims of today's shooting won't.

Time to move past the stale rhetoric of thoughts & prayers & pass commonsense gun laws NATIONWIDE.

President Biden has nominated me to be his Chief of Protocol with the rank of Ambassador

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
May 28, 2021

President Biden Announces Three Key Nominations

WASHINGTON — Today, President Joe Biden announced his intent to nominate the following three individuals to serve in key roles.

- Rufus Gifford, Nominee for Chief of Protocol, with the rank of Ambassador during his tenure of service, Department of State
- Kathleen Miller, Nominee for Deputy Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller)
- Larry Turner, Nominee for Inspector General, Department of Labor

Rufus Gifford, Nominee for Chief of Protocol, with the rank of Ambassador during his tenure of service, Department of State

Rufus Gifford is a private consultant who left his consultancy work to serve as Deputy Campaign Manager, Biden for President. Earlier, Gifford was the U.S. Ambassador to Denmark. Prior to that, Gifford was the Finance Chair of the Presidential Inaugural Committee in Washington, D.C., Finance Director, Obama for America, Chicago, Illinois, and Finance Director, Democratic National Committee, Washington, DC. Earlier he was the California Finance Director, Presidential Inaugural Committee, for President Obama's first inauguration and was a Political Consultant in Los Angeles, California. Actively engaged as a civil society leader, Gifford has promoted and sponsored a variety of organizations including UTEC in Lowell, Massachusetts, The LGBT History Museum in Looks like some more significant steps are being taken to rectify the Trump DOJ's massive overstep in seizing the records of reporters and Members of Congress. Good - hope to see more.

NEW from AG Garland: The "principles that have long been held as sacrosanct by the DOJ career workforce will be vigorously guarded on my watch, and any failure to live up to them will be met with strict accountability."

Statement from Attorney General Merrick B. Garland

WASHINGTON U.S. Attorney General Merrick B. Garland today made the following statement:

"As I stated during my confirmation hearing, political or other improper considerations must play no role in any investigative or prosecutorial decisions. These principles that have long been held as sacrosanct by the DOJ career workforce will be vigorously guarded on my watch, and any failure to live up to them will be met with strict accountability. There are important questions that must be resolved in connection with an effort by the department to obtain records related to Members of Congress and Congressional staff. I have accordingly directed that the matter be referred to the Inspector General and have full confidence that he will conduct a thorough and independent investigation. If at any time as the investigation proceeds action related to the matter in question is warranted, I will not hesitate to move swiftly.

"In addition, and while that review is pending, I have instructed the Deputy Attorney General, who is already working on surfacing potentially problematic matters deserving high level review, to evaluate and strengthen the department's existing policies and procedures for obtaining records of the Legislative branch. Consistent with our commitment to the rule of law, we must ensure that full weight is accorded to separation-of-powers concerns moving forward."

To everyone who did their part to keep each other safe, the frontline workers who stepped up and answered the call, the small businesses who sacrificed, and the 80% of residents who got vaccinated—THANK YOU!

SFDPH @SFDPH

Thanks to SF's successful COVID-19 vaccine roll out, and decreasing cases and community spread, we're aligning with State guidance that removes nearly all local COVID-related restrictions beginning today, June 15.

Of all the climate impacts, there are a few things abt excessive heat, which should be highlighted:

1. It is here now, not 2050 or 2100
2. Temp projections were too low
3. Single events affecting millions of people days are deadly

New NV numbers via @OHPredictive: @GovSisolak approval robust at 50-39 despite GOP hopes his COVID stewardship will defeat him. Numbers on his handling of economy good, too (53-38). @POTUS at 52-43, Trump at 44-50, @SenCortezMasto at 43-39 and @AdamLaxalt at 35-32.
My take:

GOOD POLLING NEWS FOR CCM AND GOV

An Arizona firm that is trying to make a foray into Nevada this cycle released its first polling numbers here today and they are interesting. I have reached out to get the full poll but it is a good sample size (783) and has a MOE of 3.5 percent. The demos look pretty good although 20 percent Hispanic may be high for a midterm.

The firm, OH Predictive Insights, has a mediocre rating from 538. It called Senate and president correctly in AZ last cycle, although the margins were a bit off and in the D direction (although it got Sinema wrong in '18).

Having said all of that:

-President Joe Biden's approval is at 52-43 in Nevada, while Sen. Catherine Cortez Masto is at 43-39 and Adam Laxalt is at 35-32 (how quickly they forget). Former President Donald Trump is at 44-50 -- danger Lil Adam! The indie numbers -- 45-46 for Biden -- indicate they be skewing slightly right for now. Maybe. But if Biden stays above 50, that is very good for CCM. So early, though.

----Gov. Steve Sisolak is at 50-39, which is quite robust, all things considered. He is at 46-40 with indies, 77 percent with Dems and 30 percent with Repubs. On the economy, Sisolak is at 53-38. Yes, this is one poll, but if those numbers are correct, I don't think Joey Gilbert can beat him.

Since December, almost 1,800 people in San Francisco who were not vaccinated have been hospitalized with COVID-19.

Do you know how many San Franciscans were hospitalized from COVID despite being vaccinated?

Six. A total of six.

The vaccines are safe and they're effective.

The Delta variant is here and it's spreading faster than what we experienced in previous surges

If you're not vaccinated, it is likely not a matter of if you will get it, but when and how bad it will be when you do

We need everyone to get vaccinated today.

A 50/50 split in the Senate and a bare majority of four seats in the House is not what I would call "control." Not when the rules require more than that to actually get most things passed, like stricter gun laws. Vote Blue all the way down the ballot in 2022 to change that!

Every mayor that mandates mask wearing indoors should also mandate vaccines in every organization, facility and mode of transport they have leverage over. The path forward is much more reliant on those who haven't gotten vaccinated doing so.

I'm glad he is, but President Biden really should not have to be begging Americans to get a free miracle vaccine that will save their life. I wish it was, but this is not Jonas Salk's America. That's why incentives and mandates are necessary, however unfortunate.

Biden's bet that his decades long experience in & around the Senate would produce a bipartisan deal looked super risky (and misguided) back in 2020. At this point, however, the bet paid off. This isn't the first time he's bucked the conventional wisdom. 1/

Back in 19/20, you couldn't find many Dem insiders who thought he could win the nomination. "Return to normalcy" wasn't going to cut it w/ Dem electorate who wanted a more 'revolutionary' candidate. But, he bet right. Can he buck it again w/ economy? 2/

amy walter @amyewalter 10s

Right now, the bet is that inflation remains "transitory" and that a new tranche of government spending won't exacerbate it. We have to wait for a while to see if that pays off. 3/Fin #breaking news: @TheJusticeDept has sued Texas on @GovAbbott's latest immigration EO. Here's a link to the court papers and here are my hot takes. /1 int.nyt.com/data/documentt …

3:32 PM · 30 Jul 2021

Karen Tumlin @KarenTumlin · 16s

That was some speedy work by the DOJ & rightly so. There's no need to sleep on taking Texas to court on this recycled unconstitutional garbage. I was part of legal teams that sued 6 states on similar provisions a decade ago and expect this one to bite the legal dust as well. /2

Karen Tumlin @KarenTumlin · 16s

As a basic matter of constitutional law, states just don't have the power to set immigration law or criminal penalties & their efforts to do so are political theater and nothing more. /3

Karen Tumlin @KarenTumlin · 16s

Here is the real truth about these hate-filled state efforts to target immigrant communities. They hurt all of us. When a string of states passed similar measures a decade ago, I had the joy of working with plaintiffs who were republicans, democrats & somewhere in between. /4

Karen Tumlin @KarenTumlin · 16s

We had plaintiffs of every race and ethnicity. That's because these hateful laws hurt our communities and everyone in them. As someone proudly born and raised in Texas, the great state deserves better. Good on you, at DOJ. /end

I'm fine masking up again to protect public health if that's what we need to do. But any time we're asked to mask VACCINE mandates should be amped up at the same time, even more aggressively. If not, we're not solving the long term problem.

This is idiotic. Mandate vaccines for teachers. Give them the usual exceptions (physician statement or religious). Can even add a "prior infection" exemption with proof from antibody or T-cell test. Those who don't comply should pay for their own regular testing or quit.

San Francisco, CA Vaccination continues to protect against severe COVID-19 illness, but with the COVID-19 Delta variant now infecting a small percentage of vaccinated people as well as many unvaccinated people, eight Bay Area health officers have issued Health Orders requiring masks indoors in public places. The Orders require all individuals, regardless of vaccination status, to wear face coverings when indoors in public settings, with limited

Health officials also recommend that all employers make face coverings available to individuals entering their businesses, and businesses are required to implement the indoor face covering order.

I have yet to find a blemish in this jobs report. I've never before seen such a wonderful set of economic data:

--Job gains in most sectors

--Big decline in unemployment rate, even bigger for Black & Hispanic/Latino

--Redn in long-term unemp

--Solid (nominal) wage gains

943,000 jobs in July w/ large upward revisions for May & June

0.5pp reduction in unemployment rate w/ a 1.0pp reduction for Black & 0.8pp reduction for Hispanic/Latino

Labor participation rose 0.1pp

Median duration unemployed fell from 19 to 15 weeks

David Mamet's descent into fringe conservatism adds an even darker element to his writing… one without the humor

> Doug Sovern @SovernNation
> Ok, this is an odd one, and I don't know how many voters it will move, but David Mamet just endorsed @larryelder for governor. Will it close the deal? Because as you may recall from "Glengarry Glen Ross," it's as simple as ABC… always be closing.

FIRST IN PLAYBOOK — Philanthropist and pediatrician Priscilla Chan will today announce she's donating $750,000 to Newsom's Stop the Republican Recall campaign, arguing in a statement that "protecting public health" is a key issue in the California recall.

"Governor Newsom has prioritized public health and made tough decisions to ensure that Californians stayed as safe as possible in the face of the unprecedented challenges over the past year," said Chan, who founded the Chan-Zuckerberg Initiative with husband and Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg, and who also served on Newsom's economic recovery task force.

THIS is what's at stake in this recall.

Anti-vax, anti-mask Republicans like Larry Elder want to stop CA from requiring teachers be vaccinated. They don't want kids to wear masks in schools.

Elder & Co. want California to follow the DeSantis path.

Californians must Vote NO.
